

Suggested Historical Fiction

For Mr. Munoz's 5th Grade

Below is a list of suggested books that would fall under the general history that we learn about in Social Studies. Any of these books would be good for the historical fiction book report that is due in November. Some of the titles are old, so you might have to do some searching to find them.

Ann's Story by Joan Lowery Nixon (Colonial)

Caesar's Story by Joan Lowery Nixon (Colonial; slavery)

Constance: A Story of Early Plymouth by Patricia Clapp (Colonial)

Emma's Journal: The Story of a Colonial Girl by Marissa Moss (Colonial)

Harrow and Harvest by Barbara Willard (Civil War)

I Sailed with Columbus by Miriam Schein

John Treegate's Musket by Leonard Wibberley (Revolutionary War)

Johnny Tremain: A Novel for Old and Young by Esther Forbes

Mr. Revere and I by Robert Lawson (American Independence)

My Brother Sam Is Dead by James Lincoln Collier and Christopher Collier (Revolutionary War)

On the Day Peter Stuyvesant Sailed into Town by Arnold Lobel (Colonial New Amsterdam/New York)

Or Give Me Death: A Novel of Patrick Henry's Family by Ann Rinaldi (American Independence)

Raven of the Waves by Michael Cadnum (Vikings)

Red Badge of Courage by Stephen Crane (Civil War)

Skald of the Vikings by Louise E. Schaff (Vikings)

Steal Away Home by Lois Ruby (Underground Railroad)

Surviving Jamestown: The Adventures of Young Sam Collier by Gail Langer Karwoski (Colonial)

The Courage of Sarah Noble by Alice Dalgliesh (Native American)

The Dangerous Voyage by Gilbert Morris (Pilgrims; Mayflower)

The Primrose Way by Jackie French Koller (Early Colony; Puritans)

The Rainmakers by E. J. Bird (Native American)

The Serpent Never Sleeps: A Novel of Jamestown and Pocahontas by Scott O'Dell (Colonial)

The Sign of the Beaver by Elizabeth George Speare (Native American)

The Witch of Blackbird Pond by Elizabeth George Speare (Connecticut Colony)

Wayah of the Real People by William O. Steele (Native American)